FOREWORD

The records in this compilation have been secured from as many sources as were available to the compiler at present. A great amount of research has been involved, as well as thousands of miles of driving throughout the county. No claim of completeness is made, but it is hoped that these records may form the nucleus for a future, more exhaustive list. The compiler believes the data to be correct, as far as they go, and will appreciate any additions which may be sent to her. She also wishes to extend her gratitude to all who have aided her in locating the graves of the soldiers and in obtaining the vital statistics pertaining to the individuals mentioned. Especial thanks go to Alice Turner Miller of Ithaca, Michigan, for the copy of the New York Index of Awards, 1860, and for her assistance in other ways.

One week before the Battle of Bennington, Samuel Dewey enlisted in Col. Herrick's Vermont Regiment as a drummer, was at the Battle of Bennington, and, after two or three months' service, was discharged. The Vermont Rolls list him as a drummer during this period. Removing to New York, he re-enlisted as a private in Capt. Abiel Sherwood's Co. of New York troops under Cols. Livingston and DuBois, was at the surrender of Ft. Mifflin (later Ft. Mifflin), where he was taken prisoner and carried to Quebec. His pension record says that this was in April, 1779, but, as the Battle of Ft. Mifflin took place in 1777, there is an unexplained discrepancy. From QUEBEC he was taken by Sir John Johnson of the British forces and kept a prisoner among the Indians until the fall of 1783, when he was exchanged. He and his companions made their way back to civilization and their homes on foot. Since the war was then at an end, he did not re-enlist nor did he receive any discharge papers. For this reason, when he applied for a pension in his later years, he experienced some difficulty in establishing his claim; but through influential friends in Congress, a special bill was passed, restoring his American citizenship and granting his pension.

Jacob Doty served as private, enlisting in New Jersey. He served one month in Capt. Logan's Co., one month in Capt. Tunison's Co., one month (captain's name not recollected), six months in Capt. Smalley's Co.; was in several scouting parties during this six months' service, and continued to serve at various times until the close of the war, one week of which was in Capt. Vanarsdalen's Co. at the time of the revolt of the Pennsylvania troops. His service in all amounted to 12 months and was in Col. Frelinghuysen's New Jersey Regiment. Was a pensioner. In 1855 he was still a resident of Hillsdale County. His wife was pensioned after his death. She left Hillsdale Co. in the fall of 1856, going to Seneca Co., N.Y.

David Haynes enlisted at the age of 13 in Capt. John Chatham's Co. of Pennsylvania Militia. He was familiar with the woods and piloted troops through them against the Indians. In June, 1778, he again enlisted as a Ranger and Indian Spy under Col. James Murray and served in that capacity until Jan., 1781, with only a three months' furlough during the entire time. In Oct., 1781, he enlisted as a substitute in Capt. Bailey's Co. of Pennsylvania Militia under Col. George Ross, served one month, and then received his discharge.

Verlina Hoisington (first name spelled in various ways) served several enlistments in the Revolution. In the Battle of Bennington he was attached to Col. Seth Warner's Regiment. In Feb., 1776, he was a waiter to his father, Major Hoisington. About 1777, May 1, he enlisted as a private under Capt. Benjamin Gait and Col. Warner. Enlisted again about May 1, 1778, served four months, twenty days. On Apr. 1, 1780, reenlisted as a private in Capt. Jesse Safford's Co. of Rangers, commanded by Major Ebenezer Allen. In March, 1781, enlisted and served one month against the Indians, under Lt. Meriah Green. In April of the same year enlisted in Capt. John Benjamin's Co. of Vermont troops. In Feb., 1782, went to Boston and "entered on board" the Deane, a privateer frigate commanded by Capt. Samuel Nicholson, in Capt. Delavan's Co. of marines. On Mar. 10, 1782, went on a cruise to intercept British vessels bound for the West Indies. They captured several prizes, one of them an 18-gun frigate. He returned to Boston in June and accepted a bounty paid by Alexander Hodgson in behalf of a committee of the "Town of Boston" to serve in the Continental Army for three years. He is also listed in 1780 as a member of Capt. Cox's Co. of New York troops. He was a pensioner.

His father, Major Joab Hoisington, also served during the Revolution in several capacities. He was delegate to the first Vermont convention in 1774. In 1775 he was town clerk and treasurer, overseer of the poor, assessor, and commissioner of highways at Wadstock, Vt. In July (or Sept.), 1776, on recommendation of the convention members from Cumberland Co., he was unanimously appointed to be Major of the Rangers, "to be raised in the counties of Gloucester and Cumberland. Earlier in the year he had been Col. of Minute Men, "Upper Vermont Regiment." In Feb., 1774, the Cumberland Co. Convention appointed him on the Committee of Correspondence for the City of New York. In Dec., 1776, he went on horseback to Fishkill, N.Y., to obtain from the Committee of Safety settlement for his regiment, his men being in sore need of food and clothing. He then rejoined his regiment, was stricken with smallpox, and died near Newbury, Vt., on Jan. 23, 1777.

Benaiah Jones II served in Capt. David Miller's Co., 12th Conn. Regiment, commanded by Col. Obadiah Wadford, in 1776. It is asserted that he later acted as guard to General Washington, but no documentary proof of this has come to light. Jemima Skinner is also credited with "heroic service" during the war, but the nature of the service is not stated.

Lebbeus Larrabee, at the age of 15, was sergeant under Capt. Benjamin Cargill, and on Apr. 1, 1788, he was appointed Quartermaster in Capt. Brannard's Co., under Col. James McCallum. Was a pensioner, and was pensioned from Hilledale Co., later moving to Branch Co.

His father, Timothy Larrabee, was a member of the Sons of Liberty in Windham, Conn., and was one of the group who forcibly expelled from Windham and Norwich Mr. Francis Green, one of the adherents of Gov. Hutchinson. He was also one of the men appointed by the Sons of Liberty to "visit and deal with Gov. Samuel Peters of Lebanon," a troublesome Tory. Mr. Larrabee met a further need of the colonists by learning to make salt petre and proposing to manufacture gunpowder for them.

Edmund Pratt enlisted in Saybrook, Conn., in April, 1776, under Capt. Elijah Scoville of Scoville. The next year he reenlisted, serving in companies commanded by Capt. Sturkey and Whigman. In 1778 he became a seaman on the frigate Raleigh, John Barry commanding. He took part in an engagement with the and, was taken prisoner, and held captive by the British until December, 1778, when he was exchanged, doubtless on parole, as he did not again enter the service. He was a pensioner from Hillsdale Co. His grave is probably on his own farm.

Moses Allen was the first white settler in Hillsdale Co., coming there in 1827. He served in the War of 1812 and was always known as Capt. Allen, but where his title came from is not known. At the outbreak of the war, being then in Canada, he had the misfortune to be impressed into the British Army. His sympathies being with the U.S., he deserted, fled to Detroit, and joined the U.S. troops stationed in that city. When Gen. William Hull surrendered Detroit into British hands, Moses Allen was among those captured and he escaped only through the kindness of a brother Mason who had been placed in charge of the Ohio Volunteers. Just why Mr. Allen had enlisted in the Ohio Militia is not clear. Official records give service to Moses Allen from 1812--1814, beginning after the surrender of Detroit; therefore we must conclude that he enlisted again after he had escaped from the British. He is listed under Capt. James Barnett, Clark Parker, and Samuel Spangler.

Joseph Divine served in the War of 1812 as Captain and participated in the Battle of Oswego. He was a Captain in the New York Militia for 11 years and Major for 12 years. In the War of 1812 he served as Captain of a company of detached Militia, July 20, 1812, to Feb. 13, 1813, and on the Canadian border in 1814. This company was called the Sterling Co. of Militia and was stationed as a guard at Little Sweden. It was released from draft, but stood as Minute Men in case of invasion. The officers of this company received 50 stand of arms from the War Department, with ammunition, but received neither rations nor pay. The regiment was commanded by Col. Matison and, at an alarm, from Oswego, Capt. Divine called out his company to participate in that battle.

Served as a Sergeant, enlisting at Palmyra, N.Y., in the New York Militia, under Capt. Samuel Jennings and served as Sergeant from May 11 to Sept. 12, 1813. Served under Capt. Hull in 1813 and participated in the Battle ofodus Point; under Capt.
George Culver in 1813 in the Battle of Fultonsville, and under Capt. Culver in the Battle of Ft. Niagara. At the time of the Civil war he assisted in organizing a company of "Silver Grays" in Hillsdale County, consisting of veterans of the country's earlier wars who, though advanced in years, offered their services to President Lincoln, but were never called into action.

William -- -- --
Margaret -- 1794 (?) -- 1877 -- m. Robert Wright

This record is not at all clear, either as to family relationships, or as to service. One record, obtained from the family, says that John Gilmore was a bachelor, and always lived with his brother, Samuel. This record gives his birth-date as 1783. Another record, obtained from another branch of the family, says that John Gilmore, brother of Samuel, came from Ireland, leaving a part of his family, among them his daughter Margaret, in Ireland. She later came to America with her husband. The tombstone record gives the dates as above. If he was a brother of Samuel, he could not have been born in February, 1785, for the Family Bible gives Samuel's birth date as June 24, 1784. As to the war service, one version says that John was drafted, but his son William served in his place. Another version says that John actually served. If John was born either in 1785 or 1783, he could not have had a son old enough to serve in the war, nor could his daughter, Margaret, have been born in 1794. The records are included in this compilation, in the hope that some one can clear it up.

Salmon Sharp served from New York, Mar. 6, 1813 to Sept. 6, 1814, in 23rd U.S. Infantry, under Lt. Levi Burr and as Sergeant under Lt. Benjamin Morris (or Moore). Was in the Battle of Ft. George, the Battle of Stony Creek, the Battle of Beaver Lake, where he was taken prisoner by the British. He was confined in a stable until July 23, 1814, but escaped and went to his father's house to recover from injuries received at the hands of the British. Rejoined his regiment Nov. 20, 1813 at Sackett's Harbor, after which he was in the Battle of Stone Mills, Lundy's Lane, and Ft. Erie.

For further details of Mr. Sharp's service see Sketches of Old Hillsdale, II, 131-134.
